

Ramesh Kumar
Co-Founder & CEO
zakupoint Health

Ramesh helps Healthcare Benefit Administrators deliver value to their self-funded employers by "unifying the healthcare experience through data", driving patient engagement, identification of risks and costs, and driving member-level actions. We leverage AI-powered insights and high-impact member experiences that steer the population to the right places of care.

Ramesh has over two decades of experience in healthcare analytics and expertise in predictive modeling, machine learning, data management and member engagement. His focus on personalization, patient engagement, and benchmarking provides actionable insights that improve transparency and empower employees to better manage their healthcare expenses.

Ramesh hosts a popular podcast called "Voices of self-funding" bringing together innovators who are serving the self-funded space, and bringing new technologies like AI, cost containment solutions, and new business models to drive impact.
